

Improving Patient Quality of Life

If you want a career where you make a difference, then consider becoming an Occupational Therapy Assistant (OTA). You'll work with patients and help them overcome challenges ... adapt to new circumstances ... and learn techniques for maintaining independent living and a high quality of life.

As an OTA major, you'll gain a deep understanding of the functioning of the human body, including sensorimotor, psychosocial and cognitive components ... demonstrate clinical reasoning skills ... learn how to administer treatments and screenings using appropriate procedures under the direction of an occupational therapist ... and much more.

Our program is the only OTA program in the central Pennsylvania area.
